RENO, WASHOE COUNTY.

NEVADA, MONDAY, JUNE 13 1881.

Mrs. Jenny June's Delicate Advice to Ladies.

The choice of underwear is a great element in its coolness and daintines of summer dress. Square cut and neatly made garments of thin, but not very fine batiste are best for worker-who cannot afford linen, lawn and cambric. As for silk, they should only be worn occasionally, even by the rich, in summer, as they will not look well or remain soft after many wa-hings, and cleanliness in hot weather requires frequent changes. A gauze shirt or wool or India silk is recommended under the combination garment for comfort, health, neatness and the preservation of outer clothing. It does not add perceptibly to warmth it can be changed often, and it absorbthat unpleasant moisture which, in the stout women, so often makes dreadful havoc with clothing.

It is noticable that ladies who make a great display on occassions during a great di-play on occassions during warm weather are apt to be al-tenly in the intervals; they keep up the pressure all the time, and they alternate between d'agging about a long train and displaying before the gaze of the multitude a most elaborate getup, from hairpins down to highly embroidered hose, and lounging in tang-led hair, sack and short skirt for the benefit of whoever has the right to share their privacy. There is no del-icacy, no innate refinement, in a habit of this kind.

Linked Sweetness.

A newly-married couple at the Cleveland Railroad station amused the pasengers. It was evident, eays a local reporter, that they were slowly consuming by a terrible burning of the unquenchable flame of young love. They wandered to and fro along the entire length of the station, the one arm of the s vain encircled the waist of Mrs. Swain, and the other bearing their baggsge, a three-pound Saratoga, After having exercised sufficiently they repaired to the waiting room, and there whiled away the remaining time before the arrival of the train by bil-ling, cooing, caressing and kissing, until even the clerk in the fruit stand smiled. He was politely told by the man with the wife that he was lacking sense. Several others who didn't know what love is were also anable to suppress their merriment. As excess of feeling, no matter what kind, will turn on the faucet to the fountain of tears, this young couple finally became so happy that they wept copiously. At last the train arrived and the loving pair departed. No doubt the passengers on the train received their money's worth of amusement their money's worth of amusement during the ride.

Quite a number stepped up and asked his terms. "Size, weight, age and crewd, "what are your size, weight, age and condition?" To which came the response, "Five feet, three inches year old, seven children, two by Martin's Maria, two by Carter's Penelope Jane and three by my wife, match me, by jings, match me!"

Cherry Birds.

Every summer there is a flock of very pretty birds that visit this town and are constant visitors to the multiand are constant visitors to the mul-berry trees on Second street, by Charles Harvey's store. They are a beautiful bird, but do not sing, and beautiful bird, but do not sing, and are larger than a canary. The back is a light plum color, with a top-knot of the aame colored feathers, and the under-side is a delicate canary color, and the wings are a perfect dove color, tipped with the most delicate spiral blood-red points. The boys shoot them with stones through rubber slings, and one having been wounded tell to the indewalk as we were passing, is how our attention was were passing, is how our attention was especially called to them. We do not know what species of bird they are, but the boys call them cherry birds.

"The Little Stranger."

On a little tombatone over a little grave at Bloomington, Ill., is cut the figure of a lamb, and this brief inscription; "The little stranger." There is no name or drte. People asy that this is the resting place of a child that sickeped and died as it was passing through the town, in charge of some man whose name is not remembered.

General Badeau reports that Grant's 13,601 man. Badesu gives the figures. During the whole season's campaign Grant received 40,000 reinforcements and Lee 30,000. Grant's entire loss is stated; killed, $,500; wounded, 26,000; total, 31,500. The Federals lost 19,4 000 in the single battle of Gettysburg. and the French loss at Waterloo was over 49,000. At Appomatox only 27,516 men were paroled. This is all those expenses would not be change that was left of Lee's splendid army of Virginia on the 9th of April, 1865, a change only by reason of combinations year and a month after Grant took in the party." Witness thought Edcommand of the Army of the Potomac. But in the constant fighting and "pushing" that was forced by Grant from March 29th to April 9th, the rebel loss by capture was 46,495. In twelve days they lost by capture 74.011 men and officers. Grant's losses in the same time were: killed, 2,000; wounded, 6,500; missing, 2,500; total 11,000.

No filibustering is intended. The laws of Mexico will be obeyed and the National Government supported.

Clay resigned March 31, 1842, and was nominated for President upon the Whig ticket in 1844. New York was the focal State, and 15,000 Abolition votes were cast for J. G. Birney, which left a plurality of 5,106 in that State in favor of James K. Polk, thus making the count in the Electoral College 170 for Polk against 105 for Clay. Had the Abolition votes been cast for Clay the result would have been 167 for Clay and 108 for Polk in the Electoral College.

The Bribery Investigation at Albany-Securitay's Bulleting.

ALBANY, June 11.

Last evening the Bradley-Session case was taken up. Sessions' counse says he can show where Bradley got the $3,000. Armstrong testified that Edwards, a lobbyist, had offered him noney to oppose Conkling.

The bribery Investigation Committee agreed to adjourn to-day to Monday morning in order to accommodate Francis N. Bangs of New York, who, as counsel for the Committee, wishe to read up the testimony already taken.

William K. Temple, Assemblyman, estified that one Edwards had conversed with him, asking why he continued to vote for Conkling and Platt, when there was no chance of electing them. Edwards asked what his expenses were, and witness said $2,500. He asked if Depew's friends paid his vote. Witness said: "No: I would wards a d-d rascal. Did not known Edwards' first name, but believed he was a lobbyist. Witness left the stand, and the Committee adjourned.

An Appeal to Conkling to Leave Republican Party.

NEW YORK, June 11. The New York Herald continues coaxing Conkling to leave the Republican party. It says: We repeat it we can see no peace for Conkling in the party as yet organized. He certainly cannot sit in convention with the men who have trumpeted to the four winds of heaven calumnies against his personal and public character. Behind the lobbyists at Albany and the ruffians at Chicago there is a public opinion that respects sincerity, eloquence and courage. To this public opinion no American states. man ever appealed in vain. The hour has come. If Conkling has the wisdom as well as the courage, he is the man for the hour.

EASTERN AND WESTERN.

usiness Prosperous, and Other Mat

Correspondence. As the two towns are so near of size, and this being a representative Eastern and Reno a representative Western town, I have been drawing interesting comparisons between them There is more brick used here, and the business streets have more two and three-story houses. The pavements are better. The two principal streets are well laid with cobble stones, and side gutters drain them. They would be about equal to Commercial Row from Schooling's to the Depot Hotel, and Virginia street from the track to the bridge. They have good gas, but no water works, although the country is full of running streams, and ditches could be built far cheaper than our Highland ditch was. Gas costs $9 a thousand here and $6 in Reno. Ashland has no daily paper, nor has Mansfield, which has 6,000 inhabitants. There are two weekly papers, one Republican and one Democratic. Modesty forbids my saying how much better the WEEKLY GAZETTS is, but it contains nearly twice as much reading matter as either one. They have a dream oftentimes of greater and more good fire engine, three brass bands, Masonic, Odd Fellow, and other lodges, and about such stores and markets as Reno. There is any quantity of small change in this country, and people watch the pennies as closely as Nevadans would the short bits. I think business is greatly benefitted by over there with the black moustache the use of one, three, and five-cent pieces. The trade in trifles is very large, and makes & good part of the merchant's profits. Where people have to pay ten cents for a knick knack they simply go home without it, where if they could get it for a couple of cents they would take it. It is hard to realize what a small part of the world Nevada is. I have fulled to see the smallest item of news from there in any Eastern paper. I have seen San Francisco dispatches about a walking match and a delayed steamer, and a few items of that kind. Very few of the papers have mining stocks reports, but I didn't seem to suffer any on that account. Eastern papers are full of the biggest kind of es copied from Western papers, and the Calaveras handlers printer item (I wonder if that is true) seems to be in demand. If you want to be copied get up big lies. They will go further han the most important facts you could gather in a week's travel. As for real value, of course they compare as gold and lead, and time proves all things. The much talked of boom in business is apparent at a glance. It is everywhere and in everything. Five years ago the people here were practicing small economies which Western people never thought of. They deprived themselves of everything not absolutely necessary, and many did not look to have the ordinary comforts of life. Salaries were very low and many business men were holding on at in any of our newspapers who are fee-an actual loss because they had faith bly trying to imitate the monotonous in the country. Houses were empty, shops and factories were still and thousands idle. Now everything is changed. The country is fairly humming. Wages are better and men are scarce. All the mills and manufactories have a year's orders ahead, and are crowding out the work and getting cash for their goods. Railroads that At the Sabbath school Hon, W. M. were sold for their bonds a year or eighteen months ago are now paying dividends or making big improvements. Values have advanced, lands are high crops are immense, exports are growing, and prosperity is seen everywhere.

Complaint still reaches the GAZETTE that the bridge over the Countryman ditch is not repaired. The ditch in question is private property, as the road was built years ago before the ditch was thought of. The Road Supervisor has only to order the proper party to repair the bridge and see that it is done. There is not much work about this and it should be done speedily. Our roads are not in as good condition as they might be.

The completion of the first five niles on the N. & O. is near at hand, and that means a more vigorous p ing ahead in the near future. maker and the rest of the travel- M sore, Woods, Wheeler and Moran ing Odd Fellows have returned from went out on the line to-day and will go as far as Beckworth.

BEAUTY AND BRAINS.

How the Prize Woman Looms Up as an Intellectual Grant.

At Chase and TLyes' may be seen picture of Louise Montague, who took the prize as the handsomest woman. The "Peerless Beauty" who received the first prize from a circus proprieto as the handsomest woman in America "has full and expressive features, clear and sparkling eyes; as to her figure sculptor could do no more in art than this wonderous flesh and blood has done in nature." As to her intellectual gifts-her wit, her intelligence, he information -an acquaintance of "Nym Crinkle," who has talked with her testifies in a very emphatic manner After an introduction to her,he asked "Fair Helen, what news from Troy?" The "Helen" addressed gave a look of superb disdain, and arching her neck with the grace of a princess, replied I ain't Helen, neither; and I don't know nothin' about Troy-wasn't never there. What'er yer givin' us? "Don't you ever feel the inferiority of the crowd that gape and stare at you every day?" "I'm pooty, I knows that, and I reckon that daddy Forepaugh knows it too, for he poneys up the spondulix every Saturday evening regular as a clock." But don't you fitting triumphs than the plaudits of an ignorant crowd?" "Well, I do wish old Forepaugh'd raise my pay, but I guess he thinks he's payin' 'bout as much now as his bank'l stand. I rather like bein' looked at tho,' I vow I du. There's that good lookin' feller -The picture at Chase & Thyes' does not show the lady's intellect.

Another Alaskan.

Lieutenant Ray, of Port Halleck, passed through Reno on Saturday for San Francisco. He goes to cammand an expedition which will explore and map Northern Alaska, and assist in searching for the lost Jeanette. Lieutenant Ray will select a vessel and it will be furnished with supplies to the amount of $20,000. The plan is to proceed north as far as practicable and establish a station in some favorable locality, from which point, as a base of supplies, the party proposes to prosecute their way into the interior, and should it be deemed advisable, other stations on their route will be located and provisioned. After conveying the party to the selected site for the station, the vessel is to return, and at a time designated goes with further supplies to the relief of the party.

Denny Ryan of Ruby Hill Fatally Sho by Abe Bandolph.

About 10 o'clock Saturday night on Ruby Hill, Abe Randolph shot Denny Ryan in the breast with a bull-dog revolver, and inflicted a wound which will. obably prove fatal. Immediately after the shooting Randolph requested some friends to accompany him to Eureka, whither he went and delivered himself up. It is claimed that the shooting was on account of Randolph's wife, with whom, it is alleged, Ryan had had some intimacy. At the picnic Saturday, Randolph's jealousy was aroused by seeing, his wife, from whom he had been separated three months, in Ryan's company, and after the train had started on the return trip he came across Ryan and unpleas ant words were exchanged. A fight was at that time averted by friends both being members of the Centennial Guard, but on several subsequent occasions the two met and abused each other. The members of the company, however, prevented them from coming to blows. At midnight word was received by the Sentinel from Ruby Hil that Ryan was sinking very fast, and was not expected to live more than a few hours longer.

CHARITABLE THIEF.

the San Francisco gar Morey got To Reno.

The San Francisco Post recently published an account of a robbers committed on Telegraph Hill in San Francisco. An Italian gardner went to a picnic, and during his absence burglars entered the house and stole about $400. The boys arrested here have a part of this money according to their confession. They came here from Ogden and met two other boys from the west. The latter had a sack of money and they told the gentlemen from Ogden that it was taken from the gardener in San Francisco. The thief, after stealing the money, went to Oakland where he remained until the officers began to get to close in their search for him, and then like all well informed criminals in search, of bea!th he came to Reno. Avery recovered $84 from the Ogden boys. They say that their chance acquaintance from San Francisco was very liberal and divided with them according to his means.

Closing Ode. Sheep Sharp.

Wells Drury, of the Chronicle, is going into the sheep business. He has ordered a pair of silver plated sheep shears, and bargained for 32 dogs, terriers and old broken down hunters without any trouble. He already tells about shearing two dozen sheep before breakfast, and that he once owned a dog that starved to death watching a sick lamb that had strayed. Wells bleats very mournfully of times on the Comstock.

The Eclipse.

Although a very short notice was given in the GAZETTE. the eclipse on Saturday night was well attended, and he entertainment was worth more than the price of admission. The sun fightin' mit der army. I like better and moon both did well although there were some tedious waits during the first act, and some of the clouds were entirely unnecessary. Notwithstanding these objections the erlipse was as a whole very satisfactory and it

CATON TO GOIDS!

Many have noticed great agitation among the awallows flying to and fro the few days nest and asked the cause. It is this: The long cold storms of last week cleaned the atmosphere of insects, so that the swallows could get little or nothing to est, and so caused great suffering among them. Many have died of startation, sai is evident from the fact that the little bodies of those picked up were reduced almost to mere akeletons.
